Senate Clash on CIA Committee Postponed

Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) postponed a head-on collision with Sen. Richard B. Russell's Central Intelligence Agency Committee yesterday by deferring the introduction of a resolution of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.) that would add three Foreign Relations Committee members to the existing Russell Committee. Fulbright said he would introduce the McCarthy resolution next Wednesday.

Late Monday afternoon, Fulbright, Russell, and McCarthy met quietly in the Foreign Relations Committee Capitol hearing room in an effort to work out a compromise. The only apparent result of the session was another meeting of the seven members of Russell's CIA group yesterday morning. The seven members emerged adamant.
